ROSCO

Super Heat Shield, 20" x 24" sheet	101019912024	$ 13.25
Deflects heat. It is generally used to protect color filters in long range applications, especially when using dark colors such as blues and greens. Should be positioned between the lens and the color filter, allowing space on each side of the filter for the escape of heated air. Also available in rolls.

Thermashield

Lessens the adverse effects of heat on performers and products used in commercials. Where MR's or other hot lamps are used, it helps protect plastic color filters as well as other heat sensitive objects. Set in the beam of a lighting instrument, it reflects back infra-red energy, effectively reducing the transmitted heat, while transmitting 80% of the light.

QUICK TIP

CHOOSING THE RIGHT PATTERN HOLDER

There are three different types of pattern holders: sandwich, tabbed and channel. Sandwich holders are most commonly used with stainless steel patterns. They squeeze the pattern in place between two metal plates, keeping the metal pattern from warping from the heat of the lamp. Tabbed holders are helpful for fine-tuning the patterns, as the tabs allow the pattern to rotate in the holder. Channel holders allow a glass pattern to slide into the channels. If you are unsure which type of pattern holder you need, feel free to contact our product department. They will help you choose the right one for your fixture.
